MALÉV IL-18

The Ilyushin-18 airliner is a spacious low winged monoplane powered by four 4000 e. h. p. turboprop AI-20 engines which ensure smooth steady flight even on two engines only.

Thanks to its mechanical design and the use of up-to-date materials and techniques in construction, as well as its low fuel consumption, it is very economical in operation.

Its flying characteristics enable it to land and take off even on medium sized airfields.

The Ilyushin-18 is equipped with airborne radar and other electronic devices to enable the pilot to avoid bad weather conditions and ensure a smooth flight.

There are three wide, comfortable passenger cabins to accommodate either 8 first and 75 tourist class or 89 all-tourist class passengers.

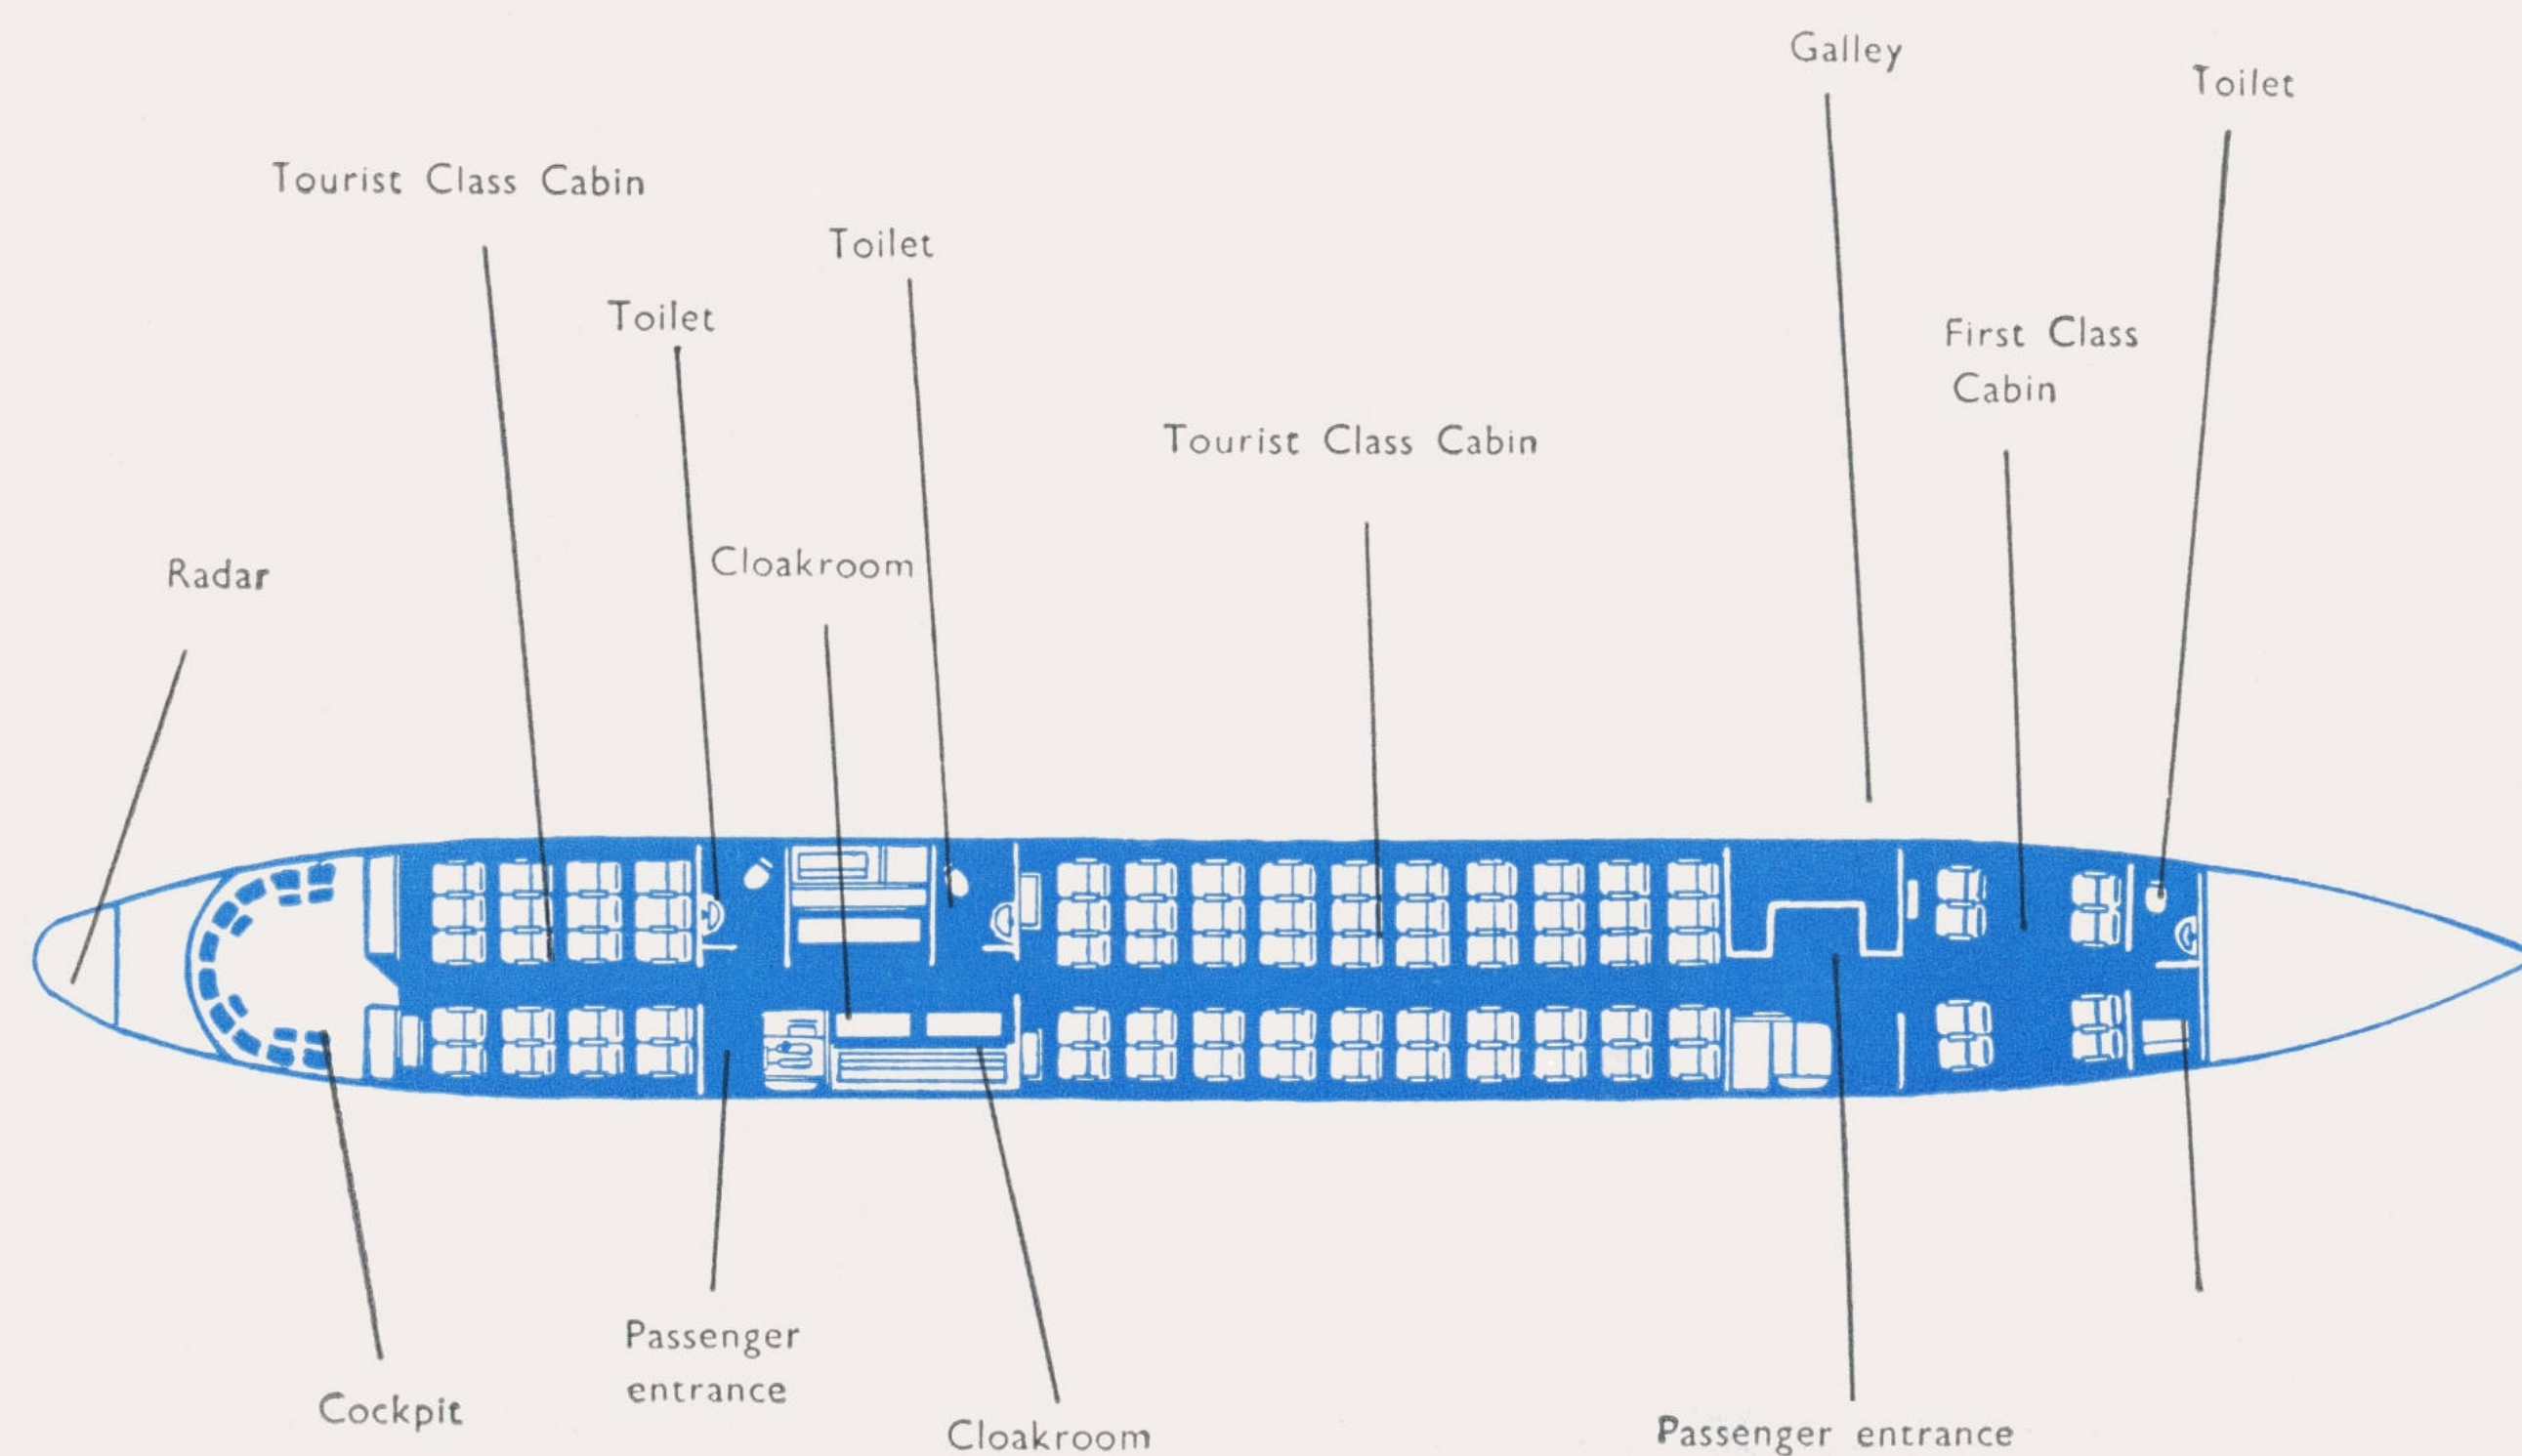

The interior is pressurized to an altitude of 6,000 ft. (1.800 m) even while the aircraft cruises at 33,000 ft. (10.000 m).

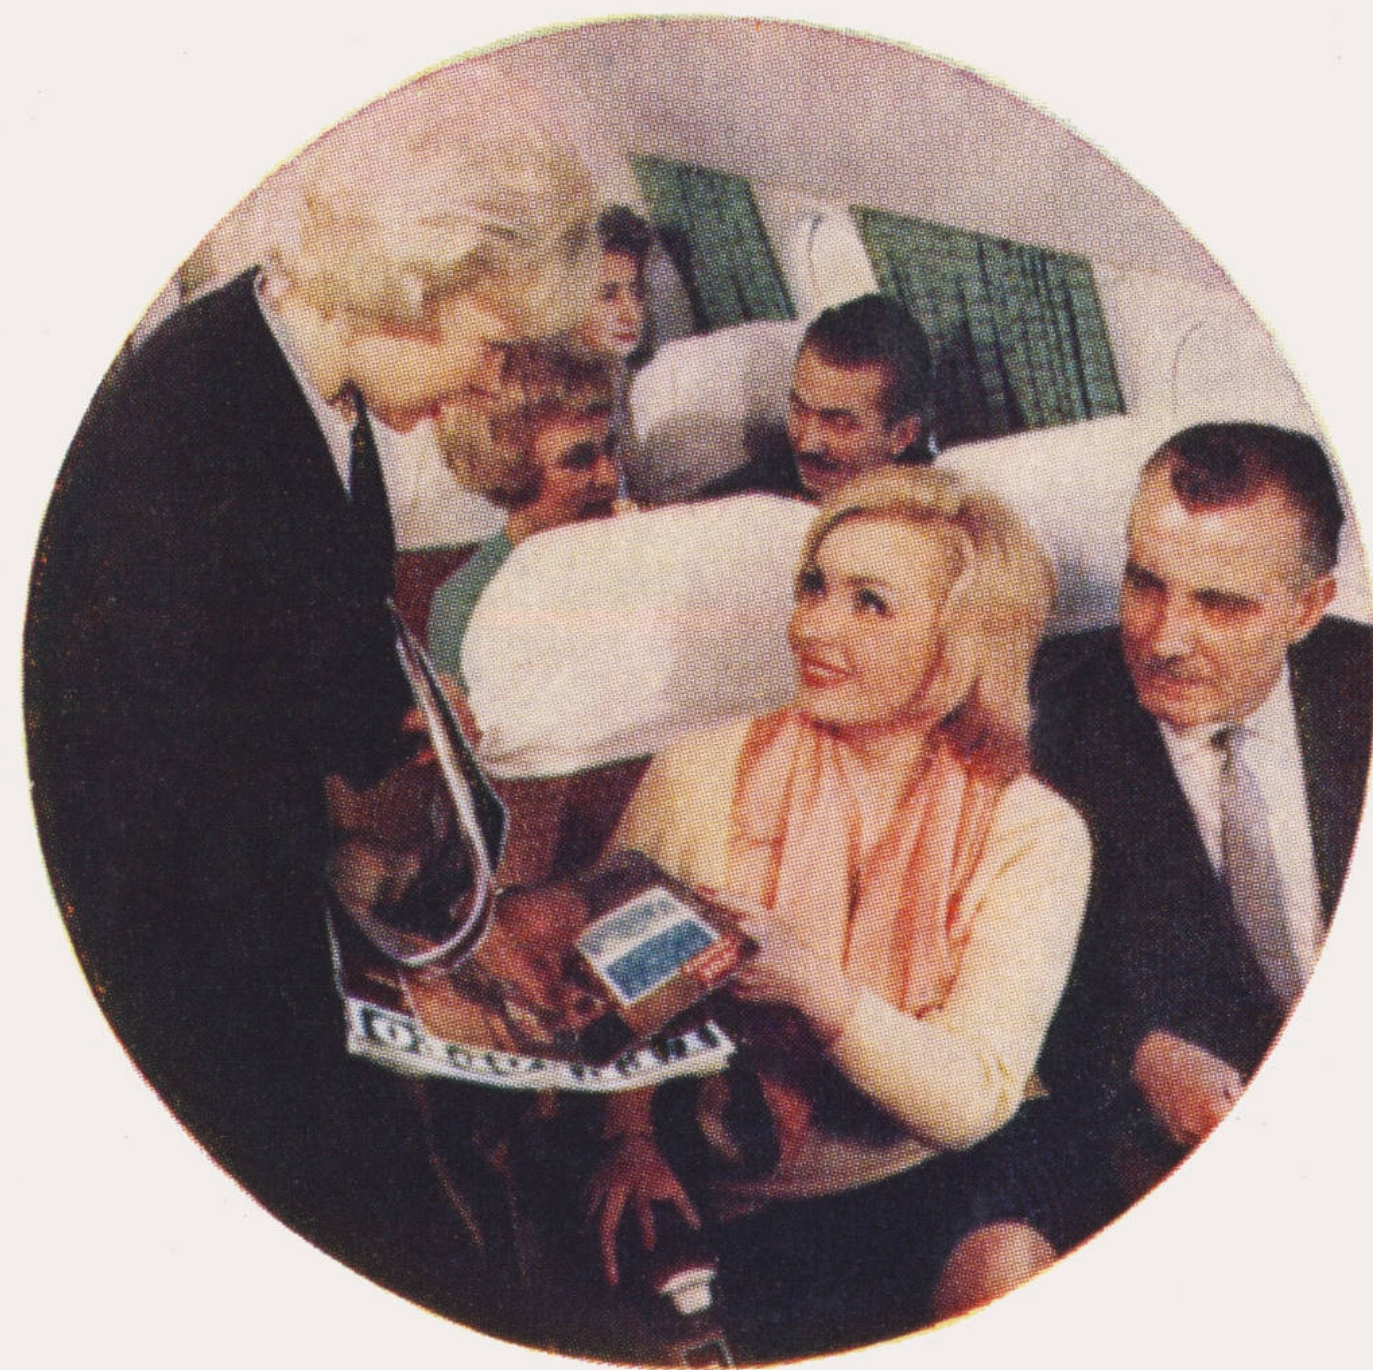

Air conditioning ensures temperature and ventilation in the passenger cabins.

The cargo holds are also air conditioned and pressurized and will therefore allow for the carriage even of delicate and perishable goods.
